Lane 3 · Relational · 30-Day Calendar

Goal: Reactivate the past-client SOI, collect reviews systematically, and host one community event.

Targets: - 5 personal touches per week from Nikki to past clients (20 over 30 days) - 10+ Google + Zillow + Facebook reviews collected - 2-4 referrals received and tagged in BoldTrail - 1 client-appreciation event held (8-12 attendees) - 3-5 past clients in active reactivation conversations

Owners: Nikki personally (this lane is only her). Muhammed handles logistics + Trello reminders.

Pre-flight (Week 0 — 1 hour total)

- ☐ Pull SOI list from BoldTrail (export contacts tagged `client-past`, `referral`, or in `Closed` stage)
- ☐ Sort by closing date (oldest first — those whose 7-year mark is approaching)
- ☐ Identify 20-30 priority touch targets for the month
- ☐ Block 30 minutes Wednesday + Friday on Nikki's calendar for the personal-touch ritual
- ☐ Block one weekend evening at month-end for the client event

Week 1 · Reactivation Wave + Review Sweep

Personal touches (5 emails, Wednesday)

Nikki sends 5 personal emails to past clients. Each is custom — no template. Format:

```
Subject: [something specific to them — not "Just checking in"]

Body: 60-90 words.
- One specific reference (their kid's recent win, a neighborhood update, a market insight
- One sentence about what's new on Nikki's end (only if relevant)
- No ask. No CTA. The relationship is the deliverable.
```

Use `gergacs-followup-composer` agent with stage = `Past Client (any)` and the specific signal you're referencing.

Review sweep (Friday)

For every closed deal in the past 90 days that hasn't left a review:

```
Subject: A small ask, if you have a minute
```

Send to: Every Closed-stage client past 90 days with no review currently surfaced. Track: BoldTrail tag `review-requested-2026-04` for the cohort.

Trello tasks (Muhammed)

- ☐ Build the "Wednesday Personal Touch" recurring Trello card (5 names per week, rotated)
- ☐ Pull the past-90-days closed-deal list for Friday review sweep
- ☐ Verify Google, Zillow, and Facebook review URLs are live (if any are missing, this is a bigger problem — flag for emergency fix)

Week 2 · Referral Activation Wave

Personal touches (5 emails, Wednesday — different 5 names)

Same format as Week 1. Different names. Track in BoldTrail.

Referral conversation activation (Friday)

For any past client who has previously mentioned a friend or family member “thinking of moving” or “thinking of selling” — call them personally within 48 hours.

Script: > “Hey [client name], it’s Nikki — a quick call. You mentioned [person] back in [month/year] was thinking about [moving / selling / downsizing]. I wanted to circle back and check in. If they’re still considering it, I’d love an introduction whenever the timing’s right. No pressure on you — just don’t want to lose touch with someone you care about.”

Outcome: A warm intro to a prospect who’s already been pre-vetted by someone Nikki has a real relationship with. These convert at 3-5x the rate of cold leads.

Trello tasks

- ☐ Pull all BoldTrail notes containing keywords “thinking about” “considering” “friend” “family” “their parents” — surface 5-10 referral opportunities
- ☐ Schedule one 15-minute call slot per opportunity on Nikki’s calendar this week

Week 3 · Event Planning + Continued Touches

Personal touches (5 emails — different 5 names)

Same format. Now 15 names touched cumulatively.

Coastal Coffee event invite goes out

Concept: “Coastal Coffee with Nikki” — a Friday morning, 8:30-10 AM event at a Savannah coffee shop or her office porch. 8-12 past clients invited. No agenda. Just coffee, conversation, oysters or pastries, time together.

Why: Past clients in a room together create their own conversation about Savannah life — and your name comes up naturally between them. The event also generates content (with permission): photos, short Reels, maybe a “Coastal Coffee” video series for YouTube.

Invite (Outlook send to 12-20 past clients):

```
Subject: Coffee & oysters · last Friday in May

[Client name],

I'm hosting a small Friday-morning gathering at [location] — coffee, oysters, maybe a cho

Friday, May [date], 8:30-10 AM.

If you can swing by for 30 minutes (or 90), it would mean a lot. RSVP whenever — Microsof

— Nikki
```

Trello tasks

- [ ] Confirm event venue + book it
- [ ] Send invitations Wednesday Week 3
- [ ] Order coffee/pastry/oysters (depending on venue; ~$200-400 budget)
- [ ] Brief photographer if commissioning content from event

Week 4 · The Event + Final Touches

Coastal Coffee with Nikki (Friday morning)

During: - Greet every guest by name - Have a small “Pearl Found” parting gift — a small Savannah-themed item (pearl-shaped soap, oyster-shell candle, $5-10 each) - Take a few candid photos (with permission) - Capture 3-5 short video clips (15-30s) of guests answering “What’s your favorite thing about Savannah?” — Reel pool for Lane 2

After: - Same-day Outlook thank-you note to every attendee (a real one, not a template) - Wednesday following: “It was so good to see you” follow-up to anyone who couldn’t make it but wanted to come

Final 5 personal touches (Wednesday Week 4)

Now 20 names touched cumulatively.

Lane 3 month-end report

Reviews collected	Google Business / Zillow / FB	Weekly
Referrals received	BoldTrail `referral` tag count	Weekly
Past-client reactivation	BoldTrail past-client → Active stage moves	Weekly
Event attendees	Manual count	Once

Lane 3 follow-up cadence (post-campaign integration)

After the 30-day campaign ends, Lane 3 becomes ongoing: - Week-of cadence: 5 personal touches, every Wednesday - Quarterly: Coastal Coffee or comparable event, 8-12 attendees - Annually: Closing-anniversary card to every past client (Make Scenario 05 from ops package handles this)

This is the highest-margin lane in the business. Closed deals from referrals carry roughly 6-9x the margin of paid-lead deals because the acquisition cost is essentially zero.

What kills Lane 3

- ❌ Any sign of a templated mass-email feel (immediate trust collapse)
- ❌ Asks layered onto every touch (the touch itself is the deliverable; the ask comes only when there's a real reason)
- ❌ Forgetting a specific detail you previously knew about a client (refer to BoldTrail notes before sending — this is non-negotiable)
- ❌ Overdoing event volume (one event/quarter is right; weekly events are exhausting and dilute the experience)
- ❌ Reviewing for review's sake — the review request must come AFTER a moment of obvious value to the client, not on a fixed schedule with no context
